FAQs

DO THESE BYE-LAWS APPLY TO ME?

Yes: These bye-laws apply to all households, apartments and commercial premises.

HOW DO I COMPLY WITH THESE BYE-LAWS?

In order to manage your waste correctly you need to be able to prove that:

You have a contract in place with an authorised waste collector (bin sharing is permitted for which proof of agreement is required).

OR

You can demonstrate regular use of an authorised facility.

WHY DO WE NEED THESE BYE-LAWS?

- To help you manage your waste in an environmentally acceptable manner;
- To ensure that your waste is only given to an authorised door-to-door waste collector or brought to an authorised waste facility;
- To help ensure your waste is correctly segregated;
- To reduce illegal dumping and backyard burning.

WHAT HAPPENS IF I DON'T COMPLY?

If you fail to comply with any of the requirements of the bye-laws it may result in a Fixed Penalty Notice (maximum €75) being issued by this Local Authority or a member of An Garda Síochána.

It may also lead up to a fine on conviction of up to €2,500.

WHAT DO I DO IF I LIVE IN A MANAGED APARTMENT COMPLEX?

The bye-laws will still apply; the management company is obliged to ensure adequate containers are provided for residual, recyclable and food waste in designated waste storage points

They are also obliged to provide you with the written information regarding the arrangements in place. Segregation within the apartments will be the responsibility of the occupant, in order for the segregated system to work all apartments must play their part.

IS THERE ANYTHING ELSE I NEED TO DO?

Yes: You must segregate recyclable and food waste from your residual waste and present these separately.
